His best trades all look like lottery tickets - 1¢ and 2¢ entries paying 3,000% +

But lottery players don't keep an 80% win rate

He's not buying longshots. He's buying the outcomes the market priced backwards

80.6% weather win rate. + $15,297 since February. $929K volume

Profile: <https://polymarket.com/@tenkiyoho?via=pavlo-ys0z> ...

Edge → fading confident crowds - when the market calls a weather outcome ~1% and he knows it's live, that's the whole game

Where the money came from:

$25 → $938 - [Seoul 15°C, Apr 28] - No at 1.3¢ $8 → $353 - [Seoul 18°C+, Apr 17] - Yes at 1.2¢ $299 → $3,706 - [Chicago 66-67°F, Mar] - Yes at 8¢

Each one was a market 98%+ sure of the opposite - and wrong

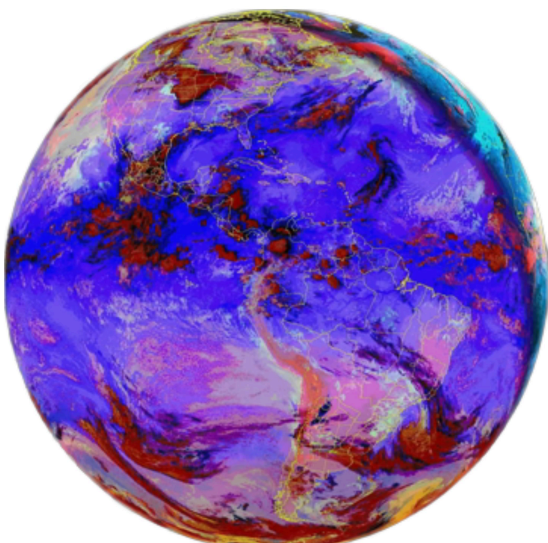

These aren't lucky tails - he wins ~80% of the time

The cheap trades cluster where he reads best - Seoul and Chicago

Most traders pay up for certainty

He gets paid for it
